Legislators Visiting CSU to Shadow Faculty Members

With the assistance of Political Committee Chair Julian Madison (SCSU- History), CSU-AAUP has invited legislators to shadow a faculty member at the CSU campus of their choice. CSU-AAUP hopes this opportunity educates legislators about CSU faculty, both inside and outside the classroom.

Representatives Aresimowicz and Arce have already visited CCSU, and Senator Bye, Senate Chair of the Higher Education and Employment Advancement Committee, is scheduled to visit in November. Representative Sawyer and Senator Guglielmo are scheduled to visit ECSU. Representative Lavielle, Senator LeBeau, Representative LeGeyt, Senator Osten, Representative Kokoruda, and Senator McLachlan have also expressed interest and visits are in the process of being scheduled.

CSU-AAUP will continue to follow up with legislators to encourage a campus visit, especially for members of the General Assembly's Higher Education Committee.

Campus Equity Week Activities

Following are some photos from CSU-AAUP's activities for Campus Equity Week, which seeks to bring greater awareness to the precarious situation for contingent faculty in higher education.

What does your office look like? Below are some photos of part-time faculty "offices," from a desk in a hallway, to shared office space, to local restaurants.

All of the CSU campuses had informational tables at the student centers during Campus Equity Week.

The local chapters also screened various films and presentations to celebrate Campus Equity Week. Below a group of students at CCSU watch Aaron Calafato's documentary "For Profit," about student debt.
